GTR AFRICA LONDON 2019

The dynamics surrounding trade and infrastructure finance for Africa are changing. On November 13th, 475 industry leaders attended GTR Africa London 2019 to discuss how these industries are evolving.

Established as a key annual gathering for a wide range of domestic and international trade, export and infrastructure finance professionals from the African region, the event provided multi-format sessions allowing delegates to hear the latest developments on a range of topics including ECA and infrastructure finance, sustainable development, fintech innovations and more. With 34 countries represented, the event is fast becoming the leading London-based trade finance gathering for Africa-focused corporates and financiers, with the aim to unlock a valuable dividend for companies currently working with and within Africa.

Join us again in 2020 to broaden your horizons and forge new relationships focused on high quality and long-term investments in Africa.

"A very good view of the African continent and a number of interesting speakers."

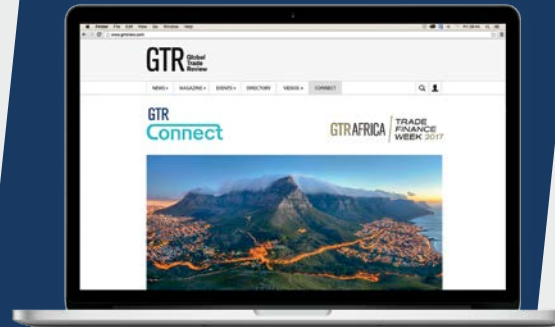

G Ghosh, Mott MacDonald

"A great snapshot on what is happening in Africa from an insider's perspective."

GTR Global Trade Review Where trade talks.

Exclusive Q&A: US Exim's Judith Pryor discusses trade in Africa

US Exim board member Judith Pryor speaks about the bank's make or break vote in the Senate, helping trade in Africa and how its focus has changed under President Trump.

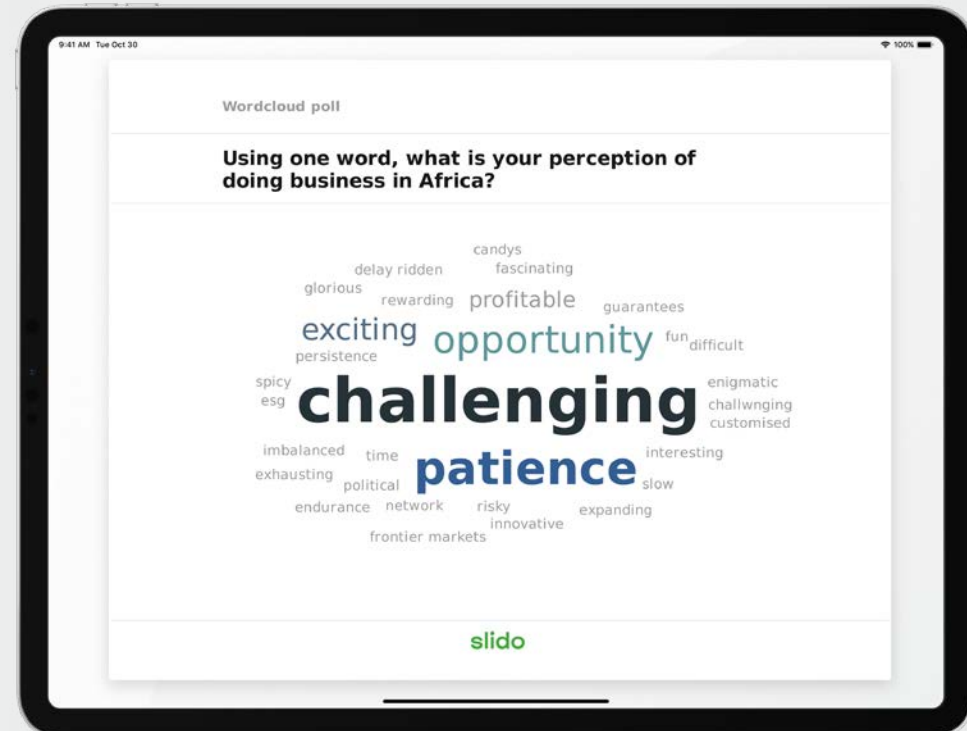

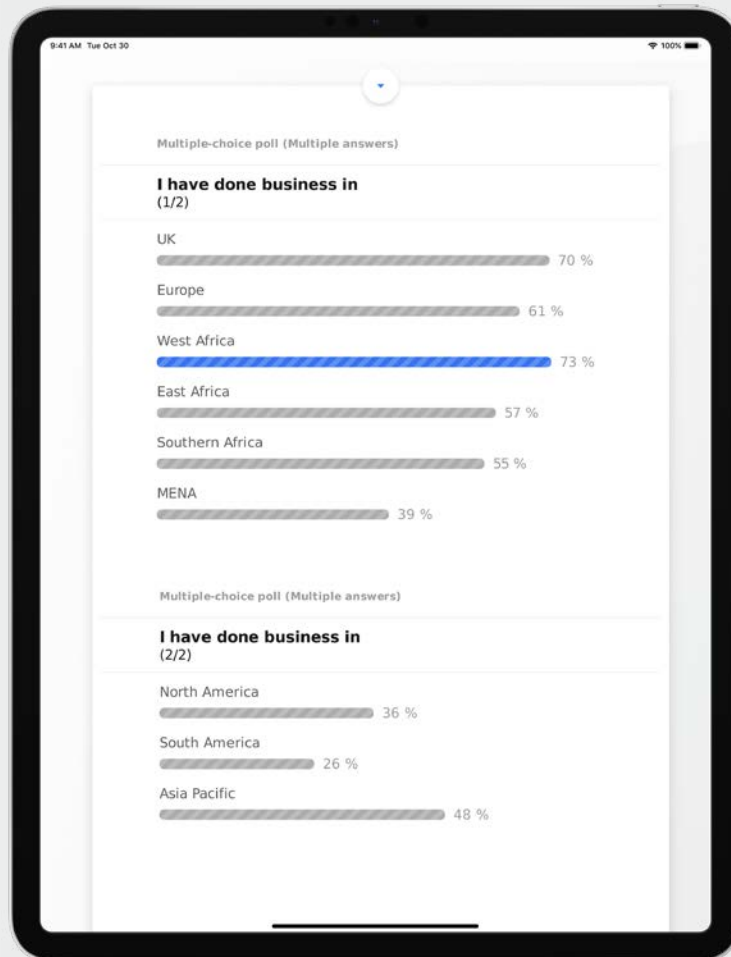

Edward George talks Africa's trade and investment opportunities

We speak with Edward George about trade and investment opportunities in Africa, how governments can ensure they get the funding they need and whether it is right to criticise China's investment in Africa.

THAT'S A WRAP!

A few takeaways from GTR Africa London 2019

- By Matt Hines

GTR Africa London 2019 took place last month in front of a record high, 500 strong audience made up of international exporters, money lenders, infrastructure builders and fintech developers. Sustainable development was the theme of the day and thought leaders from all sectors came together to meet and discuss building Africa's sustainable future.
